Presenters and Topics

Total Worker Health in Construction – Boilermaker Ears - Jason McGinnis, Canadian Director- Health and Safety Boilermakers International

The Canadian heavy construction industry has many health and safety challenges. Due to the nature of Boilermaker work on any given work site, controlling noise exposures can pose a special problem for contractors. As a result, noise induced hearing loss has historically been a significant health hazard for Boilermakers. This session will discuss the challenges and opportunities for the first Canadian program endorsed under the U.S. National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) Total Worker Health affiliate status - Boilermaker Total Health – and our industry approach to hearing conservation.

Electric Shock, Electrocutation & Arc Fault- Tom Coughlan, Industrial Division Manager Marque Construction Ltd, an Osco Construction Group Company.

Electricity is all around us and used every day by or for everyone from the cradle to the grave, but just how safe is it? This presentation will provide information on: Codes, standards and regulations, basic electricity, electrical hazards, causes, prevention/control and statistics.

Change Management -Elaine Leclerc- President of HCS Training and Consulting

Healthy, vibrant and sustainable organizations experience significant, on-going change. The ability to lead this change, while still achieving business objectives, is imperative for anyone in a leadership role. This presentation explores fundamentals of leading change and identifies essential leadership strategies. You will leave this presentation with clear direction and practical tools to ensure success with your next change initiative.
